Search Engine Optimization (SEO)

Search Engine Optimizatization is a process of fine tuning / optimization of website so that it gets higher ranking in Search Engines. These optimization practices are both onsite and offsite.

We all know the importance of having a Web site rank well in search engine results for searches on specific keywords/phrases. If your Web site doesn't have a page appearing in the top 10 search engine result positions (SERPs) the chances of someone clicking on your listing, and actually visiting your site, drop dramatically. If you're not in the top 20 you have almost no chance that someone will scan through the SERPs that far to find your page

There is a lot you can do to optimize your Web site for search engines from the code level. Where you can also affect things, and this is beyond the work of the developer/designer, is in the actual content Understanding how to tag the content, and where to place it in the HTML, is critical. Here is a basic outline of SEO best practices.
